“...and how are the children?”

The traditional greeting among the Masai tribe in Africa acknowledges the high value that the Masai place on their children's well-being. Even warriors with no children of their own respond: "All the children are well"... indicating that life is good; peace and safety prevail; and despite daily struggles, the priorities of caring for their children are in place.

Come help answer this question for Washington County's children!

Stand up and be counted! Become a member of the Washington County Coalition for Children

Washington County is a wonderful place to live, work, and visit. From Narragansett to Westerly, the region has a magnificent coastline, precious farmland, irreplaceable natural areas, and wonderful communities.

But not all our children are thriving

- Families are struggling, as seen by the many children who are homeless, need SNAP (food stamps), and free/reduced school lunches.
- Too many children witness domestic violence and are victims of child abuse and neglect.
- Area resources are limited and children with special needs often face difficulties accessing the services they need.
- One in four of our high school students reports being depressed.

Washington County Coalition for Children members are area health and social service providers, educators, community leaders, parents and concerned residents. Our mission: "to be a voice that advocates for the health and well-being of children and families in Washington County, serving as catalyst and facilitator for improved services.

The Coalition:

- Advocates for the region's children at local, state, and national levels, wherever their needs will best be met.
- Encourages collaboration to maximize relationships and resources for local youth.
- Researches and publishes comprehensive town-by-town statistics on the well-being of County children.
- Convenes forums and trainings for area professionals – doctors, teachers, mental health clinicians, after-school providers, youth leaders, etc. – who care for children.
- Promotes emotional literacy among 2nd graders through an annual bookmark design project.
- Fosters bullying prevention in local schools and communities through such events as Chalk It Up Against Bullying.
- Provides parenting information to area prenatal patients through our "Welcome Baby" project
